

I want rules in place that serve the public, rather than private, interest.. I believe the recent decision will further erode diversity of opinion in this country and further limit the ability of those with opposing viewpoints to find a voice in OUR media. Too often these days those who speak their true mind are shouted down by those who oppose their viewpoint. This country was supposedly founded on the principals of true representation and the right to voice your opinion without persecution. This is a scary and important time for America, and I fear this decision is a boon to the rich and powerful media giants and those who control what is seen and heard in our homes, and it sounds a death-knell for freedom of speech and our right as citizens to have any say in what we hear and see over OUR airwaves. Clear Channel killed the radio in this country, are television, newspapers and the internet far behind?
